

No-Show/Cancellation Policy and Procedures

Policy and Procedures

Common courtesy and respect have always been the base hallmarks of professionalism. Keeping your word and honoring your commitments is crucial to your reputation and personal brand. Illinois Tech students are expected to always represent themselves and the university in a professional manner. This includes being responsible for managing commitments, appointments, and meetings. It is professional courtesy to follow through on scheduled commitments, be on time, and cancel engagements with plenty of notice if you are unable to attend. The following guidelines have been instituted to protect the reputation of the university and relationship with organizations and corporations, as well as to enforce appropriate workplace and professional behavior.

Career Services regards these incidents as serious offenses and advises you to take special note of the following Cancellation and No-Show Policy Guidelines:

How to Cancel

You must cancel commitments no later than one business day before the scheduled event date to avoid a penalty. Canceling can be done in several ways

- Email careerservices@iit.edu
